The Detail behind the Beliefs

The beliefs have been developed after consultation with staff, parents, governors and pupils.

We believe in delivering an exciting and broad curriculum through high quality teaching and innovation

- We are all proud of our broad SPARK curriculum and the many different opportunities this provides for children. This needs to be of a high standard and constantly evolving so that new teaching methods are explored. This is supported by the ongoing development and training of staff and governors. We want the children to be excited by learning and to engage in learning that requires them to really think. We want them to be creative and imaginative.

We believe in having high standards

- We aim to operate with high standards in everything that we do. A broad curriculum should complement achieving the highest academic standards at the end of each key stage and within each year group. We want children to have high standards of behaviour. We also want children to be able to make mistakes and know that they can learn from them.

We believe in developing and knowing children as individuals

- Parents and staff are clear about this. There can be many distractions upon the life of a school but we all agree that knowing children well as individuals is central to our work. We aim to understand the needs of pupils and develop them for the world that awaits them. We believe in celebrating their successes and understand that these may take many forms.

We believe in enabling pupils to become well-rounded, happy and confident children who achieve to the best of their ability

- We want the children of Bramcote Hills Primary School to go forward into the world and be able to contribute positively. We want them to be happy and be able to share the happiness of others. We want them to challenge injustice and have a healthy sense of right and wrong. We want them to be equipped with the skills and knowledge that will enable them to succeed in their next stage of schooling and in later life. We look to encourage children to be active and healthy.

We believe in being inclusive so that all children can thrive

- The school has a varied intake and we want children from all communities to succeed and be happy. We believe in doing our best to meet individual needs, including those held by the vulnerable, those with special educational needs or disabilities and those who might be very high attainers.

We believe in working in partnership with our community and other schools

- We want to be an outward looking school so that we can develop teaching and learning both at Bramcote Hills and elsewhere. We believe in working in a variety of partnerships with others. We believe that this should not be done at the expense of our own pupils though and remember our commitment to know our own children well.
